Professional Master's Degrees in Health Professions Education and Information Technology

The university Council approved the establishment of a professional master's degree in health professions education at the Faculty of Medicine.

* The Council also approved the establishment of a professional master's degree in information technology - data science and technology at the Institute of Graduate Studies and Research.