

Facilities for Ethical Values

At Alexandria University, we strive to create an environment that nurtures ethical values and fosters a deep sense of responsibility and integrity in all aspects of academic and personal life. Through facilities and resources provided by the university, we aim to instill in our community members a strong commitment to ethical principles that will serve them throughout their lives. (<https://www.alexu.edu.eg/index.php/en/vision-mission-goals>) At our university, we are dedicated to promoting ethical values and principles among our students, faculty, staff, and the broader community. Our commitment to fostering a culture of ethics and integrity is reflected in various facilities and resources designed to support and encourage ethical behavior and decision-making. These facilities include:

Ethics Committee The committee serves as a hub for discussions, research, and educational programs related to ethics. It offers a range of resources, for discussions and group work that explore ethical issues in various academic disciplines and real-world contexts. The committee aims to engage students and faculty in thoughtful debates and critical thinking about ethical dilemmas.

Code of Ethics: The university has a comprehensive Code of Ethics that outlines the standards of conduct expected from all members of the university community. This code serves as a guide for ethical behavior, promoting honesty, integrity, and respect in all university activities.

Ethics Courses: Various academic programs include dedicated ethics courses, as a university requirement which provide students with the opportunity to study and discuss ethical, principles, and case studies. These courses encourage students to develop their ethical reasoning and decision-making skills.

Ethical Research Oversight: The university maintains a rigorous ethical review process for research involving human participants, animals, or sensitive data. Ethical review boards ensure that research adheres to the highest ethical standards, protecting the rights and welfare of all involved.

Ethical Leadership Programs: The university is planning to have leadership development programs that include modules on ethical leadership and the importance of integrity in decision-making. These programs prepare staff and students to become ethical leaders in their future careers and communities.

Whistleblower Protection: The university calls for a whistleblower protection mechanism to encourage the reporting of unethical behavior. Individuals can report suspected ethical violations anonymously and without fear of retaliation.

Public Lectures and Seminars: Public lectures and seminars on ethical topics are regularly organized, inviting guest speakers and experts from various fields to share their insights and experiences related to research ethics.
