

Alexandria University holds events to develop awareness of the issue of climate change in cooperation with universities of the United Arab Emirates and British universities

Dec 2022

The Community Service and Environmental Development Council, headed by Dr. Ashraf Al-Ghandour, Vice President of Alexandria University, agreed to assign Dr. Fahmi Charles, a full-time professor at the Higher Institute of Public Health, to coordinate the activities and workshops that will be organized by Alexandria University in cooperation with the universities of the United Arab Emirates and British universities, which aim to develop awareness among students and present Research projects on issues related to climate change and environmental preservation.